—The movement of merino sheep westward has been lively this week, many of our best flocks losing choice members.

—Sportsmen are laying in powder and shot, in readiness for the open season. Partridges and squirrels must look sharp.

—The report last evening that two persons were killed by being run over by the excursion train proves to be totally erroneous.

—Mr. Charles J. Fride, of Rand & Avery's printing establishment, Boston, is in town visiting at his wife's mother's, Mrs. H. E. Slade.

—Miss Wicker's reading, Tuesday evening, was listened to by a cultivated audience, who, we hear, received her efforts with much pleasure.

—Mr. E. A. Pratt, of East Middlebury, last week left at our office some oak twigs covered with curious lichen, and handsomely colored glazes. They appear to be something new.

—Will Allen announces a harvest ball to be given at the Glen House, East Middlebury, Sept. 18. As is well known, Will always has good dances, so far as they depend upon his own efforts.

—A large congregation listened to the sermon of Rev. Byron Sunderland, D. D., at the Congregational church last Sabbath, and his fame as a preacher was not belied. His sermon was a powerful and pleasing one.

—The lawn party at Mr. W. C. Langworthy's, Weybridge street, last Tuesday evening was a very pleasant affair and a success financially. There were flowers in abundance and ice cream and cake were bountifully served.

—The windows and doors of the new Episcopal chapel are in place, and the work of building the stone walls is progressing rapidly. The placing of the chapel on its present site involved the removal of the organ to the other side of the church.

—The Rutland Convocation will hold a special meeting in St. Stephen's church next week. Prominent clergymen and laymen from elsewhere are expected. The first service will be held on Tuesday evening. The public are cordially invited. All seats free.

—Charles A. Mead last Wednesday afternoon, started for Colorado to seek for health and possibly to grow up with the country. He will go on a sheep ranch for the present. His many friends trust that the genial climate may show its reputed efficacy in restoring his impaired health.

—The excursion to Old Orchard Beach, Me., next week, advertised in another column will be a splendid opportunity to have a first-class excursion cheap. The cost from Middlebury will be only $11.40 for the three days, including all necessary expenses. It will, doubtless, be largely patronized.

—Cherblino & Williamson this week sold one hundred stock runs to A. & O. B. Taylor, of York Center, Ohio, for five hundred dollars. They also sold to the same parties five other runs and four ewes. Use of these five runs brought two hundred, and some of the others over one hundred dollars.

—The narrowness of the present means of communication across the creek occasionally develops little exhibitions of human nature, when teams are compelled to make the best of teams to come across before they can proceed. Sometimes, when careless individuals stop their teams on the bridge for a few moments to talk, a little profanity will creep to the surface.

—A large number from this and the surrounding towns went to the farmers' picnic at Queen City Park yesterday. Thirty-nine loaded cars in all passed by here, most of them platform cars with seats placed on them, whereas the luckless riders got the full benefit of the dust which rose in clouds about the trains, and a large percentage arrived at the park with cinders in their eyes.

County News

BRISTOL.

—Butler last Saturday 13c.

—Mrs. Gregory, who has been sick, is slowly improving.

—Prayer meeting every Friday evening at Elder Bosworth's.

—Capt. Samuel Kelley of Rutland has been in town lately.

—Rev. J. E. Metcalf of Castleton is visiting at Mrs. Needham's with his family.

—C. D. Mathewson is putting up a barn.

—C. S. Bristol and J. E. Dumas are putting up some neat picket fences on their premises on the new street.

—The next meeting of the Bristol Reform Club will be held two weeks from next Friday evening, Sept. 12.

—Frank Roscoe goes to college this fall. We understand he goes to Hamilton, N. Y. Success to you, Frank.

—N. H. Munsill spoke before the Reform Club Wednesday evening. Mr. Munsill spoke well and showed himself well posted on matters pertaining to temperance.

—We had the pleasure of listening to an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. Geo. Brooks of your town, at the new school house on Mulder street last Sabbath afternoon. We think that for a young man Mr. Brooks shows himself an able preacher. We noticed also that the audience is the Quaker plan, males on one side and females on the other, and your correspondent came near following his wife on to the wrong side of the house.

—The running match came off in the park Saturday last. It was between Murray, the winner of the second money in the first match, taking the first money; Arthur Johnson, second; Dick Winnfield, third. Judges, Will Cranton, N. H. Munsill and C. D. Mathewson. Time, thirty minutes for five miles. Purses, $6, $4, $2. Some of our people seem to think that the audience is the Quaker plan, males on one side and females on the other, and your correspondent came near following his wife on to the wrong side of the house.

FERRISBURGH.

—Roland T. Robinson, the earliest pioneer in the anti-slavery cause in Vermont, died at his home in Ferrisburgh, August 25th, aged 85 years. He was the personal friend of Garrison, Thompson, Giddings, the Tappans, William Slade, Alvan Stewart, and all the leading minds of the nation in that cause since 1832. Mr. Robinson was, we believe, one of the Society of Friends, and was a man of strong mind and sterling moral worth. He was one of the largest fruit growers in Addison county.

SHOREHAM.

—Mr. E. B. Lamb, for some years of Fort Worth, Texas, has pulled up stakes and will return to Shoreham to reside. He says he has had enough of Texas.

—There will be an educational meeting in Academy Hall in Shoreham, Sept. 2, under the direction of State Superintendent Conant, with able assistants. School teachers and all friends of education are cordially invited to be present. A session forenoon, afternoon and evening.

BRIDPORT.

—The Bridport and Crown Point fair comes off next week. The usual annual fair, Wednesday, September 2 and 3. Rev. I. L. Beman, of Crown Point, will deliver an address on Wednesday. The attractions of this fair are always considerable, both in the line of goods and otherwise, and the attendance will doubtless be as large this year as usual.

ORWELL.

—The services at the camp ground are now fully inaugurated. The meeting was opened last Wednesday evening by the presiding elder, Rev. M. Mead. There are more tents and houses occupied there this year than heretofore. Mrs. Hammond is there, and they have converted the old boarding-house into a prayer-chapel, for her use. The dedication of the new pavilion took place this morning at nine o'clock.

—The timbers on the north side of the bridge were all in place early this week, and temporary plank laid down for travel while the south side is receiving its repairs. The work is going forward with reasonable speed, and it will not be long before we shall have a sound bridge—while it lasts. The timbers are covered with a coat of coal tar, which is hoped will materially increase their durability.

—Many of our subscribers about this time will receive their shares of the amount due this office on subscriptions. We have waited on many of our patrons a long time, and now we trust they will "show up" without delay. The amount of the subscription is small, and the paying of it would be a little felt by him, but all the arrears together aggregate a very large sum, which we need only as afford to wait for no longer. The date stamped on the paper with the subscriber's name ought to be a sufficient reminder, but the bills will show the exact amounts due. Those who have agreed to take wood or produce will of course understand the bills as a mere statement of account and not as a demand for the money. Please come forward, gentlemen, and gladden our impatient hearts.

—We would again call the attention of our patrons to our job printing facilities. There are many who labor under the impression that first-class work can be obtained only by sending to the cities for it. The city offices frequently turn out very poor job work, and their best work can be easily matched in many country offices. As to prices, we have no hesitation in affirming that on all except books and work of similar magnitude, we can make as low prices as any city office can do for country customers. Our attention was called some time since to the fact that a drummer for a printer in another place went through town and picked up a number of orders at prices fifteen per cent more than we were doing the very same work for. It is not hard to learn all cases for parties desiring job printing to learn our prices before giving their orders elsewhere.

—It would seem that a fire is a real windfall to those who are destitute of tin and other odds. But to those who generously handed out their pairs, hoping to check the devouring element at the late fire in this place, it proved a calamity. Some neighbors lost one, some two, and some more. There were plenty of tin cans left, but the good ones were not to be found. The next morning a number of sober faced individuals might be seen looking about among a pile of old rusty tin and wooden ware, hoping to find their property, but alas, all the good odds were gone. They must have felt as the gentleman who attended General Taylor's inauguration last. As usual, a darkey was placed in the clock room to take charge. Finally the guests began to depart, and after a while a fellow went promptly up to the darkey and said to him, "I want my clock." The darkey said, "What kind of clock am yours?" "Why, my clock is a velvet clock." "Oh, sorry mighty, massa, de velvet clocks have been gone dis half hour!" So with the good pals!

WEYBRIDGE.

—The boys report a good gathering at Montpelier at the reunion.

—Messrs. W. Child, G. E. Child, M. E. Sprague and H. O. Wales are on an excursion to the Adirondacks.

—Mr. L. J. Thomson has just returned from a week's camp at Apple-tree Cove on Lake Champlain.

—Mr. Charles Hayes and family of St. Albans are visiting friends here. Charlie is looking fresh after his bum at Colchester.

—Camp meeting is going it with a rush. Everybody is going to see and be seen. The new buildings are a great attraction, and if the weather is enough to get a crowd Mrs. Hammond is. Very little talk about saving souls. Lots of fun.

—Mr. Shaw, whose death is recorded in another column, was a resident here for many years and was always a hard laboring man. Although a carpenter, his rough exterior, he possessed a large heart and open hand to all in trouble. The sympathy of the community are with the widow in her feebleness. His funeral was attended from his residence on Tuesday, Rev. J. Quay officiating. He was interred at the Hill cemetery.

—Your correspondent has been visited by Mr. T. P. Yarter, whose name appeared in your last issue in connection with an insinuation that he was a deserter from the United States service. He claims that injustice was done him by so doing and that he was never a deserter. He says that he enlisted in 1862, under Rev. W. E. Bogart as recruiting officer, to go in the 11th Vermont Regiment; was promised by said Bogart $150 bounty. He appeared at Middlebury and found no Bogart nor any money, and had to bear his own expenses; went to Shoreham, where the company organized, and being deceived, he applied to his father to get him out, as he was of unlawful age. He did so, and he went home with his father. He then enlisted in the 26th Ct. Regt., Co. H, for nine months; served his time; was at the siege of Fort Hudson; was wounded in the arm and leg and went into hospital at Cairo, and subsequently was discharged August 14, 1863. Commenced receiving a pension July 28, 1865. Received back pay 28th of last June. He has worked as a barber in Boston until quite recently. He has now purchased the old Yarter place near the Monument, where he intends to reside.

LINCOLN.

—W. N. Gove expects a new ten-cent counter this week.

—The few rainy days we have had were highly prized in this section.

—The S. S. concert at the M. E. church last Sabbath, was adjourned until Aug. 24, on account of the rain.

—Uncle Prosper Durfee died Tuesday the 19th aged 89 years. He was the oldest person in town.

—M. J. Stearns has a new five and ten-cent counter this week, and will have had within a few weeks.

—The text book committee, consisting of A. C. Merrill, M. J. Stearns and M. B. Gove, have procured three hundred printed copies of their report to the citizens of Lincoln, giving the introduction and exchange prices, and the books are now ready for introduction by M. B. Gove and M. J. Stearns.

—Mr. Fayette Eddy of West Lincoln, formerly of Shelburne, is to teach a school at the Town Hall, to commence the first week in September. He will be able to teach algebra, chemistry, geometry, etc., in connection with other studies. This will give our pupils an opportunity of studying these higher branches without being at the expense of sending them to high schools or academies, and we hope that the people will support the school.

PANTON.

—The fever and ague is raging to some extent in this section.

—A goodly number of our people are attending the Spring Grove camp meeting.

—The harvest is past and bountiful crops of grain are stored away in the barns in good condition.

—There was a picnic party visited Basin Harbor on Wednesday last, numbering nearly one thousand people.

—Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch have been absent the past week visiting friends in Chittenden county.

—Mrs. Tull of Burlington, together with her daughter, Mrs. Halmer, is on a visit at her son's, Chas. Tull, of this place.

—Mr. R. F. Hatch, who has been employed as a salesman for H. A. Sawyer & Co. of Rutland, we hear is giving great satisfaction.

—Messrs. Cherblino & Holcomb are doing a lively business with their new threshing machine. It is from the St. Albans manufactory and works finely.

—The plum crop is the best for years. Apples are not as plenty as commonly. Potatoes are a good crop, but if the cool weather holds the corn crop will be slim.

—Mr. Henry Doten recently found in the lake near the shore, a cannon ball weighing some six pounds. It is supposed to have been thrown from Arnold's fleet.

—A rather singular "good night" that young man received the other week after having so pleasant a ride with his girl. He felt some like the one a short time ago whose sentiment was, "over the hills and far away."

—Miss Hattie Tappan, a little daughter of Shepherd Tappan, of Troy, N. Y., aged seven years, who is stopping at J. S. Tappan's, of this place, gave a birthday party on Saturday last. There were some twenty-one little girls present between the ages of three and twelve years. They were served to some delicious refreshments by their little hostess, and passed a pleasant afternoon visit, which will long linger in their minds.

—As Mr. Tim Wisell was driving to Vergennes on Saturday last, the clasp which fastens the shaft to the axle-tree gave way, letting the shaft drop, frightening the horse, which ran some distance, throwing Mr. W. from the wagon in some peculiar way. In his vain attempt to stop the horse, he was badly broken. Dr. Woodbridge of Vergennes, dressed the wound. The horse escaped with little injury.

—On Saturday night last, Mr. Silas Cherblino had a beautiful hive of bees stolen from his yard. It was taken about one hundred rods from the house, where it was robbed of the honey, leaving the bees and hive in the road. Suspicion rested on New York state in five or six hundred rods, not one hundred miles from this section. Now such crimes are not state prison offenses, we do not expect, but certainly these swallows could strike a splendid job at the Rutland work house, and some one ought to apply for them. Kimball of Vergennes knows the way and it places him to wait on them.

ADDISON.

—Dr. G. L. Whitford has returned home.

—The late drouth has killed many forest trees.

—What about that proposed Sabbath school picnic?

—Ed. Morrison is at Poughkeepsie Business College.

—Breaking colts is now quite a general occupation.

—O. A. Smith was recently injured by breaking through a bridge.

—P. B. Norton and E. Southard are about commencing their new dwellings.

—Another little knot has recently claimed attention at the Baptist parsonage.

—The Whitford trotting course is again open for business, after a harvest vacation.

—A young lady called at Mr. G. W. Norton last week. We suppose she is called one of the family.

—Before the late "splendid rain" many of our farmers were compelled to drive their cattle to Dead Creek to drink. Some had begun to fodder.

—Funeral services for the late William Thomas were held in the Baptist church Aug. 24. The church was beautifully sided with flowers by the Misses Gregory.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thomas are greatly afflicted in the loss of their second son, a fine, promising boy of thirteen. Special funeral services in connection with the event were held in the Baptist church last Sabbath, the 24th, at 12 o'clock.

—Olin A. Smith, of Addison, was quite seriously injured last Friday, caused by the stringer of a bridge which he was driving across a river, breaking and letting him fall about six feet, striking his side on the reaper in the fall, cutting him through the skin in several places.

RIPTON.

—G. H. Atwood, who was a member of the veteran Second Vermont regiment, has recently received a pension as recognition for three years' following the flag. Our local claims agent had charge of the case.

—Leslie Sparks has been quite fortunate in destroying hawks of late. In a few days he shot one and trapped two of large size, the trapped ones measuring four feet and four feet and an inch in extent of wings.

—Suspicious looking strangers, we can hardly say tramps, are getting to be quite common. A few days ago one called upon Charlie Blackford, sadly in need of about one hundred rods from the house, where it was robbed of the honey, leaving the bees and hive in the road. Suspicion rested on New York state in five or six hundred rods, not one hundred miles from this section. Now such crimes are not state prison offenses, we do not expect, but certainly these swallows could strike a splendid job at the Rutland work house, and some one ought to apply for them. Kimball of Vergennes knows the way and it places him to wait on them.

—Mrs. H. A. Benedict and her son, Master Milo E. Benedict, are spending a week or two in Saratoga, N. Y.

—The ground is getting fearfully dry again, springs and wells are falling, and unless there is rain soon, fall crops must go overboard.

—There seems to be quite an excitement in the sheep trade; flocks and loads of sheep are daily passing, mostly for the western market.

—Mr. H. B. Scovel has built a commodious platform and steps on the front side of his house, which gives to the residence a decided good look.

—Mr. Vincent R. Griswold, of Ludlow, Vt., formerly of this town, who has been dangerously ill with inflammation of the bowels, is slowly recovering.

—There will be a Sabbath school picnic excursion to Queen City Park, of Cornwall Sabbath schools, on Wednesday, Sept. 3, and all members of both schools are cordially invited to attend.

—M. B. Williamson.

—The following are the text-books selected by the text-book committee for the town of Cornwall: Webster's Franklin readers, Swinton's spellers, Reed & Kellogg's grammar, Gray's geography, Greenleaf's arithmetic, Barnes' History and Constitution of the United States, Hall's History of Vermont, Gow's Morals and Manners, Spencerian system of writing, Krust's free-hand drawing.

—As Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Scovel were on their way to Middlebury the 22d inst., the kingbolt of their wagon gave way, throwing both of them violently to the ground, the horse dragging Mr. Scovel some distance before he could stop him. Mrs. Scovel suffered only a severe jar. Mrs. Scovel's face and head were badly bruised, and her arms and limbs severely injured, but fortunately no bones were broken.

—Dr. C. A. Flanders and wife have moved to Plattsford, where the doctor intends to follow his profession, leaving us at present without a resident physician, but we understand the vacancy is short, and by his manliness and skill as a physician, he has won for himself many friends who wish him much success in his new location.

—Roland T. Robinson, the earliest pioneer in the anti-slavery cause in Vermont, died at his home in Ferrisburgh, August 25th, aged 85 years. He was the personal friend of Garrison, Thompson, Giddings, the Tappans, William Slade, Alvan Stewart, and all the leading minds of the nation in that cause since 1832. Mr. Robinson was, we believe, one of the Society of Friends, and was a man of strong mind and sterling moral worth. He was one of the largest fruit growers in Addison county.

SHOREHAM.

—Mr. E. B. Lamb, for some years of Fort Worth, Texas, has pulled up stakes and will return to Shoreham to reside. He says he has had enough of Texas.

—There will be an educational meeting in Academy Hall in Shoreham, Sept. 2, under the direction of State Superintendent Conant, with able assistants. School teachers and all friends of education are cordially invited to be present. A session forenoon, afternoon and evening.

BRIDPORT.

—The Bridport and Crown Point fair comes off next week. The usual annual fair, Wednesday, September 2 and 3. Rev. I. L. Beman, of Crown Point, will deliver an address on Wednesday. The attractions of this fair are always considerable, both in the line of goods and otherwise, and the attendance will doubtless be as large this year as usual.

ORWELL.

—The services at the camp ground are now fully inaugurated. The meeting was opened last Wednesday evening by the presiding elder, Rev. M. Mead. There are more tents and houses occupied there this year than heretofore. Mrs. Hammond is there, and they have converted the old boarding-house into a prayer-chapel, for her use. The dedication of the new pavilion took place this morning at nine o'clock.

—The timbers on the north side of the bridge were all in place early this week, and temporary plank laid down for travel while the south side is receiving its repairs. The work is going forward with reasonable speed, and it will not be long before we shall have a sound bridge—while it lasts. The timbers are covered with a coat of coal tar, which is hoped will materially increase their durability.

—Many of our subscribers about this time will receive their shares of the amount due this office on subscriptions. We have waited on many of our patrons a long time, and now we trust they will "show up" without delay. The amount of the subscription is small, and the paying of it would be a little felt by him, but all the arrears together aggregate a very large sum, which we need only as afford to wait for no longer. The date stamped on the paper with the subscriber's name ought to be a sufficient reminder, but the bills will show the exact amounts due. Those who have agreed to take wood or produce will of course understand the bills as a mere statement of account and not as a demand for the money. Please come forward, gentlemen, and gladden our impatient hearts.

—We would again call the attention of our patrons to our job printing facilities. There are many who labor under the impression that first-class work can be obtained only by sending to the cities for it. The city offices frequently turn out very poor job work, and their best work can be easily matched in many country offices. As to prices, we have no hesitation in affirming that on all except books and work of similar magnitude, we can make as low prices as any city office can do for country customers. Our attention was called some time since to the fact that a drummer for a printer in another place went through town and picked up a number of orders at prices fifteen per cent more than we were doing the very same work for. It is not hard to learn all cases for parties desiring job printing to learn our prices before giving their orders elsewhere.

—It would seem that a fire is a real windfall to those who are destitute of tin and other odds. But to those who generously handed out their pairs, hoping to check the devouring element at the late fire in this place, it proved a calamity. Some neighbors lost one, some two, and some more. There were plenty of tin cans left, but the good ones were not to be found. The next morning a number of sober faced individuals might be seen looking about among a pile of old rusty tin and wooden ware, hoping to find their property, but alas, all the good odds were gone. They must have felt as the gentleman who attended General Taylor's inauguration last. As usual, a darkey was placed in the clock room to take charge. Finally the guests began to depart, and after a while a fellow went promptly up to the darkey and said to him, "I want my clock." The darkey said, "What kind of clock am yours?" "Why, my clock is a velvet clock." "Oh, sorry mighty, massa, de velvet clocks have been gone dis half hour!" So with the good pals!

WEYBRIDGE.

—The boys report a good gathering at Montpelier at the reunion.

—Messrs. W. Child, G. E. Child, M. E. Sprague and H. O. Wales are on an excursion to the Adirondacks.

—Mr. L. J. Thomson has just returned from a week's camp at Apple-tree Cove on Lake Champlain.

—Mr. Charles Hayes and family of St. Albans are visiting friends here. Charlie is looking fresh after his bum at Colchester.

—Camp meeting is going it with a rush. Everybody is going to see and be seen. The new buildings are a great attraction, and if the weather is enough to get a crowd Mrs. Hammond is. Very little talk about saving souls. Lots of fun.

—Mr. Shaw, whose death is recorded in another column, was a resident here for many years and was always a hard laboring man. Although a carpenter, his rough exterior, he possessed a large heart and open hand to all in trouble. The sympathy of the community are with the widow in her feebleness. His funeral was attended from his residence on Tuesday, Rev. J. Quay officiating. He was interred at the Hill cemetery.

—Your correspondent has been visited by Mr. T. P. Yarter, whose name appeared in your last issue in connection with an insinuation that he was a deserter from the United States service. He claims that injustice was done him by so doing and that he was never a deserter. He says that he enlisted in 1862, under Rev. W. E. Bogart as recruiting officer, to go in the 11th Vermont Regiment; was promised by said Bogart $150 bounty. He appeared at Middlebury and found no Bogart nor any money, and had to bear his own expenses; went to Shoreham, where the company organized, and being deceived, he applied to his father to get him out, as he was of unlawful age. He did so, and he went home with his father. He then enlisted in the 26th Ct. Regt., Co. H, for nine months; served his time; was at the siege of Fort Hudson; was wounded in the arm and leg and went into hospital at Cairo, and subsequently was discharged August 14, 1863. Commenced receiving a pension July 28, 1865. Received back pay 28th of last June. He has worked as a barber in Boston until quite recently. He has now purchased the old Yarter place near the Monument, where he intends to reside.

LINCOLN.

—W. N. Gove expects a new ten-cent counter this week.

—The few rainy days we have had were highly prized in this section.

—The S. S. concert at the M. E. church last Sabbath, was adjourned until Aug. 24, on account of the rain.

—Uncle Prosper Durfee died Tuesday the 19th aged 89 years. He was the oldest person in town.

—M. J. Stearns has a new five and ten-cent counter this week, and will have had within a few weeks.

—The text book committee, consisting of A. C. Merrill, M. J. Stearns and M. B. Gove, have procured three hundred printed copies of their report to the citizens of Lincoln, giving the introduction and exchange prices, and the books are now ready for introduction by M. B. Gove and M. J. Stearns.

—Mr. Fayette Eddy of West Lincoln, formerly of Shelburne, is to teach a school at the Town Hall, to commence the first week in September. He will be able to teach algebra, chemistry, geometry, etc., in connection with other studies. This will give our pupils an opportunity of studying these higher branches without being at the expense of sending them to high schools or academies, and we hope that the people will support the school.

PANTON.

—The fever and ague is raging to some extent in this section.

—A goodly number of our people are attending the Spring Grove camp meeting.

—The harvest is past and bountiful crops of grain are stored away in the barns in good condition.

—There was a picnic party visited Basin Harbor on Wednesday last, numbering nearly one thousand people.

—Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch have been absent the past week visiting friends in Chittenden county.

—Mrs. Tull of Burlington, together with her daughter, Mrs. Halmer, is on a visit at her son's, Chas. Tull, of this place.

—Mr. R. F. Hatch, who has been employed as a salesman for H. A. Sawyer & Co. of Rutland, we hear is giving great satisfaction.

—Messrs
